“ I have very fond memories of Mr. Thomas and I am very sad to hear of his passing.

When I was in high school and running around with his son Paul, I was at his home often. He was probably my favorite adult. He was just cool. He was lighthearted and kind. He always took time to talk and joke with me and my other friends. He put up with a lot from me and Paul. He would sometimes give us this look like, "I know what you guys are up to." and he usually did. It was scary and he knew it. I always thought, "Wow, when I grow up, I hope I can be as cool a dad as he is." He was a special man. I will always remember his kindness.

“ Bud was a remarkable person - so kind, loving, and vibrant. He never met a stranger and was always ready to lend a helping hand, no matter what the task. Bud was a master stained glass artist, woodworker, house painter, and creative handyman. For years, he participated in Charleston's Labor Day Regatta Run, for which he joyfully trained with many family and friends. Bud will be missed immensely, by those who had the privilege of knowing him, and his goodness will always be remembered.
