“ I cannot begin to tell all the memories I have of Carol McCallister Sanford. We started first grade together, along with her sister, Connie McCallister Straughan. We attended Judson Baptist Church together for many years (until I moved to Nitro after the 9th grade). Later Carol worked for my mother at 37th Street Grocery in Nitro and we continued our friendship. She helped me learn to cook after I was married. She learned to cook from her mother, while I had other things to do while I was in high school and didn't take the time to learn to cook. When I needed to know something about cooking, I would call the store and, if she was the one to answer the phone, I asked her and she was always able and willing to share her expertise. We renewed our friendship several years ago and once again became close friends. I met her at Wendy's in Nitro several times a week. (She went every day!) We had another friend, Danny Stewart, who shared our table several times a week. We solved all the world's problems, shared family stories, and supported each other in many ways. I was with her when she passed this world to enter her eternal home where I will one day meet her again. I will miss her more than words can say.
