

Charles Keeling

January 14, 2013

Charles B. "Skip" Keeling passed away unexpectedly after heart complications on January 11, 2013 at age 60.

He was a kindhearted and good-humored man who positively impacted many people. His life included both adversity and transformation.

After surviving a life-threatening head injury, he continued work in construction and trucking, driving gigantic earthmovers, dump trucks, and 18-wheelers.

Over time spirituality became his life's cornerstone. He was blessed to spend 15 years helping others recover from addiction. Skip regularly studied the Holy Bible's lessons and parables, and often welcomed guests as a member of the Charleston Seventh-day Adventist Church.

He graduated from Winfield High School in 1970.

Skip is survived by parents Charles and Lorna Keeling, brother Phil Keeling, sons Jason and Adam Keeling, daughter Misty Keeling, grandchildren Hannah Keeling and Haiden Stewart, brother-in-law Ralph Thomas, and nephews Cory and Ryan Thomas. His sister Sandi Thomas preceded him in death.
