“ I just wanted to pass on my condolences to Charlie's family. My husband and I bought Maxine's house almost two years ago. We have shared so many wonderful family memories since and I am forever grateful to Charlie for allowing us that opportunity. He seemed like a rather jolly fellow. I found a box full of pictures and keepsakes in the house after moving in. When Charlie came to pick them up, he seemed happy with his new place in Charleston and was still telling me stories and information about the house. I apologize for not being present at his memorial as I did not find out until just this past weekend. My best wishes to you all. God Bless.

“ I worked with Charlie during the years he was associated with Ky Wine and Spirits. Charlie had charisma. When he spoke about wines and its connection to foods there was instant credibility mostly because of his persona. I played a few rounds of golf with Charlie and found him to be a decent golfer but more so a guy who enjoyed using golf or business to build friendships. With his light hearted manner he could pull you in and have you as a friend in an instant. I lost contact with Charlie after he left our company which I really regret because he was the kind of guy you would like to have in your network. Condolences to Patti, Jennifer and Charlie's children. I'm sure their loss leaves a void that will be difficult to fill. Gabe Hayden
