“ I had a thought of my uncle Jr. and my dad along with all the men of the family making ice cream in the old crank type freezer taking turns cranking the freezer they would all tell their stories of everything that had happened since they saw each other last, (Social media of that time) I also remember they would let me crank for awhile, (Made me appreciate the electric motor) And my uncle Jr always said he thought it tastes better when you crank it the old fashion way. Always put in the right amount of ice and salt or it will not freeze or freeze to quickly didn't matter to me the ice cream was always the best it would be around 80 to 90 degrees and brain freeze was always a side affect of the good stuff. every time I make ice cream now, I will always have these memories.
