“ David was such a good man. I will never forget growing up on Thompson Road, he was always building or fixing something and never minded sharing his knowledge with the kid up the street. I was telling my wife and granddaughter tonight how he taught me to juggle when I was about 8 years old. My granddaughter said, "Pawpaw, you can't juggle". I showed her and she was impressed. Rest in peace my friend.

“ David was truly a mans man, his word was his bond, he loved his family deeply and he never let a friend down.

My children know him as the man who ate poison ivy and bugs, could let them beat him arm wrestling and make them laugh.

I worked with him many years and he never asked anyone to do anything he would not do himself and he never left anything half done.

We need men like him in these troubled times, he will be missed by all who knew him. Godspeed David White
