“ I'm so sorry for your loss, but thankful for her gain of glory! I'm so thankful for the love shown to me by my West Virginia grandma. She opened up her home and her heart for me when I was a tired college camp counselor who needed a place to go in a pinch. Her love for Jesus and the faithfulness in which she raised her family in the love of the Lord has blessed me with one of my dearest friends! May she enjoy the blessings of walking with her Savior in Heaven!

“ So sorry for this great loss! I have a lovely memory that I refer to sometimes when a task seems overwhelming that this dear lady gave to me. As a young mom with children at Culloden Church Camp I was complaining about the heat spell that was over the area creating discomfort and preventing me from anything but staying in a much shaded dorm room. As I walked down the sidewalk I saw Dorothy a short distance from me, much my senior in age, leaning on a post drenched in sweat and exhausted. She had just come from the kitchen (the hottest place there) she had worked in there till late afternoon so others could enjoy campmeeting. She said in a loud voice looking upward and not even noticing me “Oh Lord, if one soul makes it to heaven because of my small tasks it will be worth it all!” Of course we both laughed in the years to come at that scene .. but I never forgot her endurance, and focus on Jesus. I admired her greatly! Your loss is Heavens gain I’m sure ❤️🙏

*Respectfully,
Donna White*
