“ My heart goes out to your family during this time. Losing a loved one leaves us feeling as the Psalmist described at Psalm 6:6 "I have grown weary with my sighing; All night long I soak my bed with tears; I flood my couch with weeping." I want to share a scripture with you that has given me much personal comfort. Daniel 12:2 says "And many of those asleep in the dust of the earth will wake up, some to everlasting life." The bible says that death is our enemy and soon God will destroy that enemy forever so we never have to experience this heartbreak again! But God also promises to wake up or bring back to life all of our dear loved ones through a resurrection. How we long for that day to have them back with us forever.

“ Gavin & Owen were in my class at Gateway in the infant room. From day one, they completely stole my heart! Out of both of them, Gavin was always wanting to cuddle and loved being held. He'd get so jealous when Owen or any of the other babies took the attention away from him. He loved being rocked at nap time, but it wasn't very often that he'd actually sleep because right when I'd try to lay him down, those big brown eyes would pop right back open.. so we'd rock some more. I feel so blessed to have known Gavin. He was such an amazing, beautiful little boy. If I could see him one more day, I'd never let go. I love you Gavin Jace! Being with you over that time was one of the most rewarding experiences I've ever had, being able to help and watch you grow. Thank you for all the memories. I will cherish them forever! Praying for the Aldridge family!❤️
