hello person reading this, I'm Cynthia, if you see this and happen to wonder what I'm doing here I'm just coming here to type a few things to get off my chest, I will be writing like I'm writing to iris so please don't mind it.

Hi maw-maw, i really miss you. It's been over a year since you've been gone and this world is so much worse without you, Christmas has been weird, thanksgiving isn't the same with your deviled eggs. I just want to say thank you for taking care of me for so many year, I know you did your absolute best and you did a fantastic job of raising me, I know I did a lot of stupid things and got in a lot of trouble and I'm sorry I put all of that on you, I know your at peace now and I can't wait for the day I get to see you again, I've been to a few different places since you left but I finally found a forever home I know you'd like. You actually know the person I'm living with, I recently got a adopted by this wonderful family and changed my name, I no longer have the same last name or middle name, I changed my middle name to Iris so your name can live on for a long time, I'm finally clean from all the stupid things I was doing, I have straight A's and I'm actually graduating a year early. I have a lot of siblings now, I no longer talk to my brothers, although I wish I did. I love you iris. I love you so much. Until we meet again, my love.

“ I was ten years old when Iris was born and I went to my aunt and uncle's house to see her. She was their firstborn and she was so pretty. The parents were so proud. I grew up with her and her family. As we grew, we moved away from each other and just recently got in touch with each other again. I am so sorry to hear of her passing and will never forget my sweet cousin and the memories I have of her.
