“ Jim was my neighbor, friend and like a 2nd dad to me. When you hear the phrase “Jack of all trades and master of none” that’s half true of Jim because he was the master of all. Whether you needed help with carpentry, plumbing, electrical or gardening Jim was your man and meticulous with every job he tackled. He helped my husband and myself out countless times with problems and never failed to come thru with a less than spectacular job when he was finished, he demanded it of himself, and I will miss summertime when he always gave us fresh veggies from his garden. Jim and Peggy and us both moved into our neighborhood the same year, 1993, and lived across the street from each other, he will be greatly missed and never forgotten. Give Peggy a big hug for me and I’ll see you in heaven when it’s my time.
