“ I want to offer my deepest condolences for your loss. The heartache we experience when we lose a loved one is some of those most intense pain. So I wanted to share something that has helped me to cope with a dear loss. Isaiah 25:8 says "He will swallow up death forever and the Sovereign Lord Jehovah will wipe every tear from their eyes." What a beautiful promise. Soon all the pain and suffering that death leaves us with will be gone forever because our loved ones will be brought back to life through a resurrection

“ Lowell and I grew up together on the farm. We roamed the hills and country roads together exploring everything. We played baseball football and had many footraces. He beat me most of the time. If he didn't win he would beat me up and tell me I cheated. We had many memorable times growing up together and I will cherish most of them with the exception of the knuckle bruises. Lowell you were taken too soon. I will miss you.

“ The nicest, quietest man I know. Sending my thoughts and prayers with you guys, since I can't be there. God knows I wish I could. I'd reach out and hug Jennifer and Dale with the biggest hug possible. It is the most difficult thing, but hold onto hope because it changes everything. Because of Jesus you have hope and because of hope you will one day see your father again; of that I am sure. Until then may you see the Glorious Unfolding! Google it; it's a song by Steven Curtis Chapman. Great music video! Love you guys! Jennifer Stevens-Smith
