“ When in school, she was called Delores by most of her classmates. I saw her a few years ago at a class reunion and was thrilled to see her once again and talk to her awhile and find out what she did with her life after high school. I am sure she was a great educator and that there are adults today whom she had a great impact on as a child. She was a beautiful girl in high school and I found her to still be beautiful in many ways when I spoke to her at the high school reunion. I am so sorry for the family's loss and I pray for your hearts to be at peace in the days ahead. I always like Delores and wish that I could have been better acquainted with her during her adult years. God can take care of this, so lean on Him.
