“ The circle is now unbroken. Sisters together again, now in Heaven celebrating before the Throne of God. I remember how my grandmother, Neoma Adams, so enjoyed her sister Neolo's visits. Aunt Neola and Uncle Raymond would come to the farm up on the hill and sit a spell. The sisters would reminisce about days gone by and catch up on the activities of their respective families. You could look at them setting together on the front porch and know they were sisters. They kind of reminded me of the country mouse and the city mouse -- my grandmother being the country mouse. They loved each other as only sisters could. My grandmother would always tell people that her sister, Neola, had stopped by for a visit. I bet Mammaw was surely excited when her sister arrived in Heaven for her eternal visit. Welcome Home ladies, welcome Home. Set back, relax, and enjoy all the good company.
